

KANTAR PUBLIC

Almost six in ten Britons think the country is heading in the wrong direction

23 February 2023, London – Kantar Public's latest barometer reveals that:

1. A majority of Britons think the country is heading in the wrong direction.
2. Four in ten Britons would support an early general election being held in the next few months.
3. Britons think the government should prioritise reducing the cost of living, investing in the NHS and growing the economy.
4. However, people are becoming less pessimistic about the state of the economy compared with the end of last year.

Kantar Public's research took place between the 16 February and 20 February 2023.

Key findings include:

- 59% of Britons think Britain is heading in the wrong direction. Only 12% think the country is headed in the right direction.
 - Nearly half (47%) of those who voted Conservative in the 2019 election think the country is heading in the wrong direction, while a quarter (26%) think the country is heading in the right direction.
- 41% of Britons would support an election being held in the next few months, 31% would neither support nor oppose an early election and 16% would oppose it.
 - 36% of 2019 Conservative voters would oppose an election being held in the next few months. While a third (33%) would support one.
- When asked about the three most important priorities for the UK government if it is to improve public life in the UK, Britons cite the following:
 - Reducing the cost of living for households (46%, nc vs December 2022¹)
 - Investing more in NHS capacity (43%, +7)
 - Growing the UK's economy (26%, +1)
- Britons are slightly less pessimistic about the economy compared to the end of last year:
 - 66% of Britons think the economy is doing worse than it was a year ago (-5 vs December 2022).
 - 44% of Britons think that the British economy will be doing much the same as it is now in a years' time (+4%). 39% think it will be doing worse (-9 Vs December 2022).

More detailed analysis on themes:

1. The cost of living

- Over half (61%) of Britons said they were finding it harder to meet their monthly household budget compared to a year ago (+2 vs December 2022). A third (32%) are finding it about the same (nc). 7% are finding it easier than it was 12 months ago (-1%).
- Over half of Britons (58%) would rate the government's handling of economy over the last year as very/quite poor. Only 13% would rate it as very/quite good. 29% think it is neither good nor poor.
- 81% of Britons (+4 vs December 2022) think the government is handling cost of living very/fairly poorly. 14% (-3) think the government has handled the crisis very/fairly well. 5% are not sure (-2).
- 66% of Britons think the economy is doing worse than it was a year ago (-5 vs December 2022). 26% think it is doing much the same (+3), but only 8% think it is doing better (+2)
- 44% of Britons think that the British economy will be doing much the same as it is now in a years' time (+4%). 39% think it will be doing worse (-9 Vs December 2022). 17% think that it will be doing better than it is now +5).

2. The NHS

Britons cite investing in NHS capacity as their second highest policy priority, but rate government handling of the NHS poorly:

- Over three quarters of Britons (78%) think the government is handling the Nation Health Services very/fairly poorly. Only 16% think they are handling it very/fairly well and 6% are not sure.
- Over a third of Britons (36%) think neither Keir Starmer nor Rishi Sunak would be best to manage the NHS (+4 vs December 2022). A quarter of Britons (25%) think Keir Starmer would be better than Rishi Sunak at managing the NHS (-1), while 19% think Rishi Sunak would be better than Keir Starmer (+1). 20% do not know who would be better (-3).

3. Crime

Britons rate the government's handling of crime poorly, but are unsure which party leader would be best to reduce serious crime:

- Seven in ten Britons (69%) would rate the government's handling of crime as very/fairly poorly. 20% would rate it as very/fairly well and 11% are not sure.

KANTAR PUBLIC

- 38% of Britons think neither Keir Starmer nor Rishi Sunak would be best to reduce serious crime (+1 vs December 2022). 19% of Britons think Rishi Sunak would be better than Keir Starmer (+1), and 19% think Keir Starmer would be better than Rishi Sunak (+1). A quarter of Britons (24%) don't know (-3).

4. Climate change

Britons continue to rate the government's handling of climate change, and global cooperation on climate change poorly:

- Over half of Britons (54%) would rate the cooperation between countries globally as very/fairly poor (+5 vs November 2022²). A quarter (27%) would rate this as very/fairly good (+6).
- 54% of Britons would also rate the government's handling of climate change as very/fairly poor (-5 vs December 2022). A quarter 26% would rate the government's handling of climate change as very/fairly well (+2)
- A third of Britons (34%) think neither Keir Starmer nor Rishi Sunak would be best to tackling climate change (-2 vs December 2022). 20% think Keir Starmer would be better than Rishi Sunak (-1), while 17% think Rishi Sunak would be better than Keir Starmer (-1). 29% don't know who would be better (+3).

5. Voting intentions:

- Labour 45% (-1 vs December 2022)
- Conservatives 28% (-1)
- Liberal Democrats 9% (nc)
- Green 7% (+2)
- SNP 5% (nc)
- Reform UK 5% (+1)
- UKIP 1% (-1)
- Plaid Cymru <1% (nc)
- Other <1% (-1)

Methodological information

The survey data and further details on the methodological approach of the Britain Barometer will be published here on the morning of Thursday 23 February.

A total of 1,120 interviews were conducted online among adults living in Great Britain between the 16 and 20 February 2023. All interviews were conducted online using the Kantar Research Express. The Kantar Profiles online access panel was the main sample source.

The data was weighted to match population totals for age, gender, 2019 General Election voting patterns, 2016 EU referendum voting patterns, education, region, and likelihood to vote in the next General Election. Any use of this research must cite Kantar Public as the source.

About Kantar Public:

Polling Methodological Note – February 2023

A representative sample of 1,120 adults in Great Britain were interviewed between the 16th and 20th February 2023. All interviews were conducted online using the Kantar Research Express. The Kantar online access panel was the main sample source.

The data was weighted to match population totals for age, gender, 2019 General Election voting patterns, 2016 EU referendum voting patterns, education, region, and likelihood to vote in the next General Election. Further details on the weighting are given on page three.

Voting intentions

The voting intention figures provided aim to show the current political opinion of the nation rather than to accurately predict the outcome of the next General Election.

As well as weighting the data, a Likelihood to Vote (LTV) Model has been used to estimate the voting probability of each respondent. These probabilities vary by stated likelihood of voting and whether reported voting in the 2019 general election. The probabilities themselves are based on those of respondents that participated in our polls immediately before and after the 2019 General Election.

Past vote weighting

When weighting the data, Kantar Public seek to ensure that the sample is politically representative. One element of this is to use information provided by respondents about whether they voted for in the 2019 general election and – if so – which party they voted for. Where this information is missing, we impute it based on other information respondents have provided. In the past, we weighted our poll sample to match the election results exactly (including the correct number of non-voters in the general population).

We have re-analysed all the polls we have conducted since the last general election to identify how reports of voting behaviour have changed since December 2019. This study found a decline in the probability that a 2019 Conservative voter will now report having voted Conservative in that election. If the outcomes from this study are ignored when we weight our data, 2019 Conservative voters will be over-represented in the sample. Consequently, we now incorporate the results from this study when constructing the target political profile we weight our sample to. We will update this profile regularly as more data is collected.

The political profile used for this poll is:

No vote	46%
Labour	20%
Conservative	23%
Liberal Democrats	6%
SNP	3%
Other	3%

Uncertainty

All polls are subject to a wide range of potential sources of error. On the basis of the historical record of the polls at recent general elections, there is a 9 in 10 chance that the true value of a party's support lies within 4 points of the estimates provided by this poll, and a 2 in 3 chance that it lies within 2 points.

Sampling variance

We have estimated the sampling variation in our voting intention estimates using the methodology proposed by Kuha and Sturgis (2017¹). Bootstrap resampling was used to draw fifty sets of respondents from the achieved sample (in a way which matched the quota sampling design), each of these new samples was weighted and we have then used the distribution of estimates (from the resamples) to calculate margins of error (the range containing all but the two most extreme resample results).

- Conservative Party = 23.8% to 31.3%
- Labour Party = 41.3% to 47.8%
- Labour lead over Conservatives = 11.2%pts to 23.4%pts

Weighting

Weights have been applied to the sample to ensure that it is representative of the general public in Great Britain aged 18+. The sources for the population totals are provided in each table.

*An imputed response is given for those that prefer not to say who they voted for in the 2019 General Election. Those that were too young to vote in the 2019 General Election were allocated to "No vote" for the purpose of weighting.

Likelihood to Vote in General Election

We have estimated the likelihood that each respondent will vote in the next General Election. This value is based on respondents' stated intention to vote and whether they voted in the last general election. The expected population turnout has been included as a population total in the weighting matrix. This turnout has been estimated based on the relationship between sample and population turnout rates in the 2017 general election.

	Unweighted percentage	Weighted percentage
Estimated Voting Age Population turnout if General Election were to be held tomorrow	79%	59%

The model was developed using data from respondents that participated in Kantar polls immediately prior to the 2019 general election and immediately after the election.
